

- 1 Always carry a backup wizard. Preferably one that doesn't explode.
- 2 The safest way to disarm a trap is to make your friend go first.
- 3 If the loot is too good to be true, it probably has teeth.
- 4 Swords don't solve everything. Just most things.
- 5 Wands aren't chew toys. We say this every year.
- 6 If someone says "Trust me," don't.
- 7 If the DM is smiling, run.
- 8 Just because it's shiny doesn't mean it's treasure. Sometimes it's a cursed mimic.
- 9 Heal heroes loot after the fight.
- 10 Never split the party. Unless it's for dramatic tension.
- 11 A map is not a suggestion. Follow it.
- 12 That lever? It's always a trap. Pull it anyway.
- 13 Ask questions before the summoning circle starts glowing.
- 14 Magical darkness: the universe's way of saying "nope."
- 15 "It looked like a healing potion" won't hold up in magical court.
- 16 Detect Evil doesn't work on baked goods.
- 17 Talking swords don't make good therapists.
- 18 Keep a mirror handy. Sometimes it's a mimic. Sometimes it's worse.
- 19 Dungeon graffiti is usually more honest than your party leader.
- 20 A ladder in the middle of nowhere is probably not OSHA-compliant.
- 21 Just because you can wild shape into a badger doesn't mean you should.
- 22 Don't trust anything that smiles without a mouth.
- 23 The cursed crown fits because it's cursed.
- 24 If it has a monocle, assume it's intelligent. And rude.
- 25 The cleric can only cast so many Remove Curses per day. Plan your wardrobe accordingly.
- 26 A ten-foot pole is worth its weight in not dying.
- 27 Potions look suspiciously similar. Label them, or regret them.
- 28 Your familiar is not a backpack.
- 29 Take notes. Your future self is forgetful and probably on fire.
- 30 If the merchant's smile is too wide, so is the scam.
- 31 "Light encumbrance" doesn't mean bring the piano.
- 32 Learn the language before the summoning.
- 33 Nothing says "wizard" like accidentally setting your familiar on fire.
- 34 The dungeon doesn't care about your backstory.
- 37 Avoid red buttons. They rarely launch cake.
- 38 If you hear chanting, you're either in a ritual or a musical number.
- 39 If it sparkles, it's trapped. If it hums, it's about to explode.
- 40 The hallway isn't "just long." It's suspenseful.
- 41 Always check under the rug. Just... not with your hand.
- 42 Just because the door is unlocked doesn't mean you should go in.
- 43 Fireball solves a surprising number of problems. Including the wizard.
- 44 If your cleric goes down first, prepare to meet theirs.
- 45 Stealth isn't just a suggestion - it's a lifestyle.
- 46 Your familiar does not want to be dyed pink. Again.
- 47 Fear the enemy with the smallest hat.
- 48 The dungeon was designed by sadists and interior decorators.
- 49 Always look up. The ceiling hates you.
- 50 Statues are not just for decoration. Sometimes they're hungry.

- 51 A talking skull is a red flag. Or a plot hook. Or both.
- 52 Don't accept quests from squirrels. It never ends well.
- 53 That armor? Too cursed. Even for you.
- 54 Creepy circus in a dark forest? Probably seething with foreshadowing clues, or murderous clowns.
- 55 A wizard's library is always trapped. That's just science.
- 56 You are not immune to irony damage.
- 57 Never feed a gelatinous cube after midnight.
- 58 Never bet against a halfling. They're lucky and short.
- 59 Gravity is the real final boss.
- 60 Stuck in a time loop? Expect to die. A lot.
- 61 Dragons love riddles. Especially ones you can't solve.
- 62 If the lich has a name plaque, leave.
- 63 Always bring rope. Always.
- 64 Don't drink from unattended fountains. Unless you enjoy new limbs.
- 65 If your sword is whispering secrets, check alignment.
- 66 The ranger's tracking skill includes cheese. Use it.
- 67 Throwing a rock is a legitimate strategy.
- 68 "It's only a puzzle" has preceded every party wipe.
- 69 This school is "safe-ish," not safe.
- 70 Don't adopt anything that rhymes with "demon."
- 71 Identify first. Equip later. Bleed less.
- 72 Don't leave your gear unattended. Especially around gnomes.
- 73 Death is temporary. Embarrassment is forever.
- 74 Your greatest enemy? Friendly fire.
- 75 Don't anger the plot device.
- 76 If a door talks back, just go around.

- 77 If the NPC starts monologuing, brace for initiative.
- 78 Skeletons don't knock. Neither should you.
- 77 That rabbit from that movie? Nah, it's a red herring.
- 78 That chest isn't locked. It's lying in wait.
- 79 If it's whispering your name, don't whisper back.
- 80 Sleep calm and cast Magic Missile.
- 81 When in doubt, throw the rogue.
- 82 You're not paranoid. That statue did move.
- 83 Levers don't solve puzzles. They are puzzles.
- 84 Don't underestimate kobolds. They read the manual.
- 85 If you're the only one not glowing, you're probably the target.
- 86 "Non-lethal" is a relative term. Usually for someone else.
- 87 If you can't win, negotiate. If you can't negotiate, bribe the DM.
- 88 Most poisons aren't labelled. That's half the fun.
- 89 Never taunt the dungeon. It listens.
- 90 If you're arguing with a door, you've already lost.
- 91 Time-travel is no excuse for being late.
- 92 The bag of holding has a limit. So does your dignity.
- 93 Lost without a clue? Look for a fortune teller.
- 94 Never name your horse "Lucky." It tempts fate.
- 95 If the bartender knows your name, so does the bounty board.
- 96 No spell is worth the somatic components of interpretive dance.
- 97 Just because you're dead doesn't mean you're dead dead.
- 98 "Limited Wish" is a team decision, not a prank tool.
- 99 Don't challenge an ooze to a drinking contest. It will win.
- 100 There's no saving throw against terrible decisions.
